Hey, you. Have you ever noticed you are going to die?
I mean, did you really think about it seriously?

Of course you did, even if you don't for a long time.

The fear of the unavoidable death is the ultimate fear for any rational being.

And that's because of that fear that Humans created the concept of religion and eternal life. A desperate way of the human brain to remain sane. And to attain the so desired eternal life, Humans worship all kinds of Gods, they became brain washed.

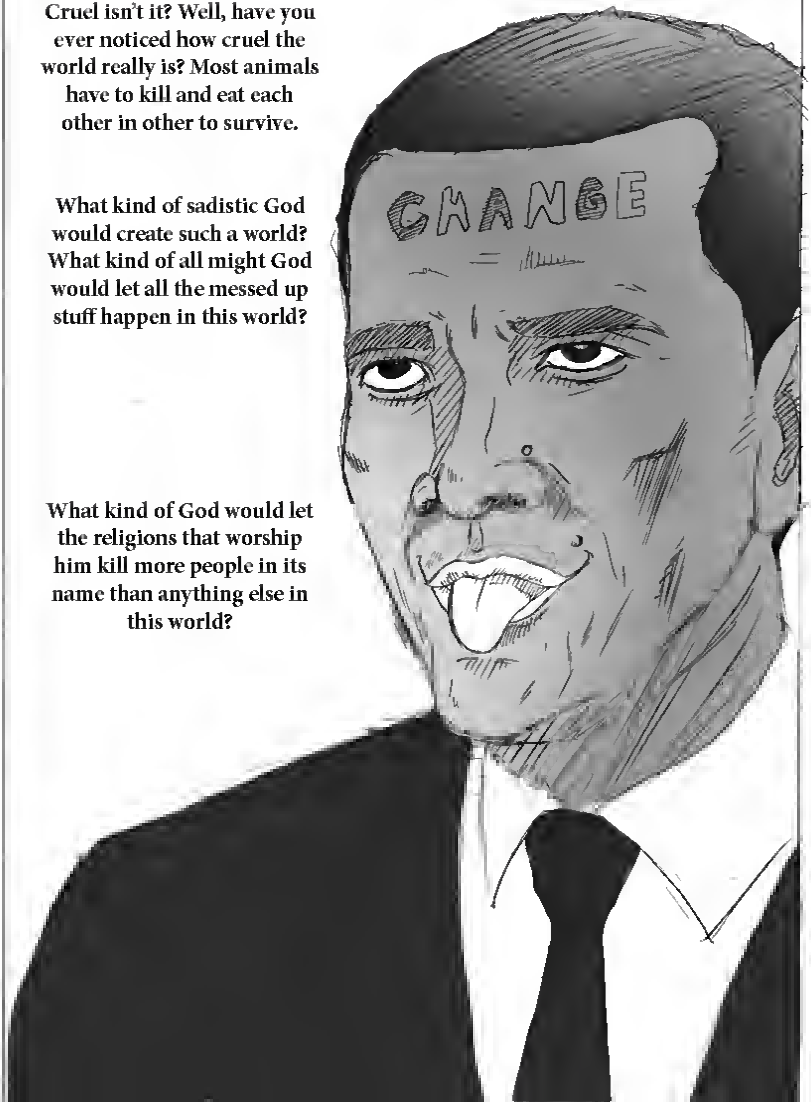
It's supposed to go something like this, God sends the sinners to hell, and the worthy join him in heaven.

However, there is a special kind of sin so detested by both God and Satan that will send you directly to Limbo, the so feared nothingness.

Cruel isn't it? Well, have you ever noticed how cruel the world really is? Most animals have to kill and eat each other in other to survive.

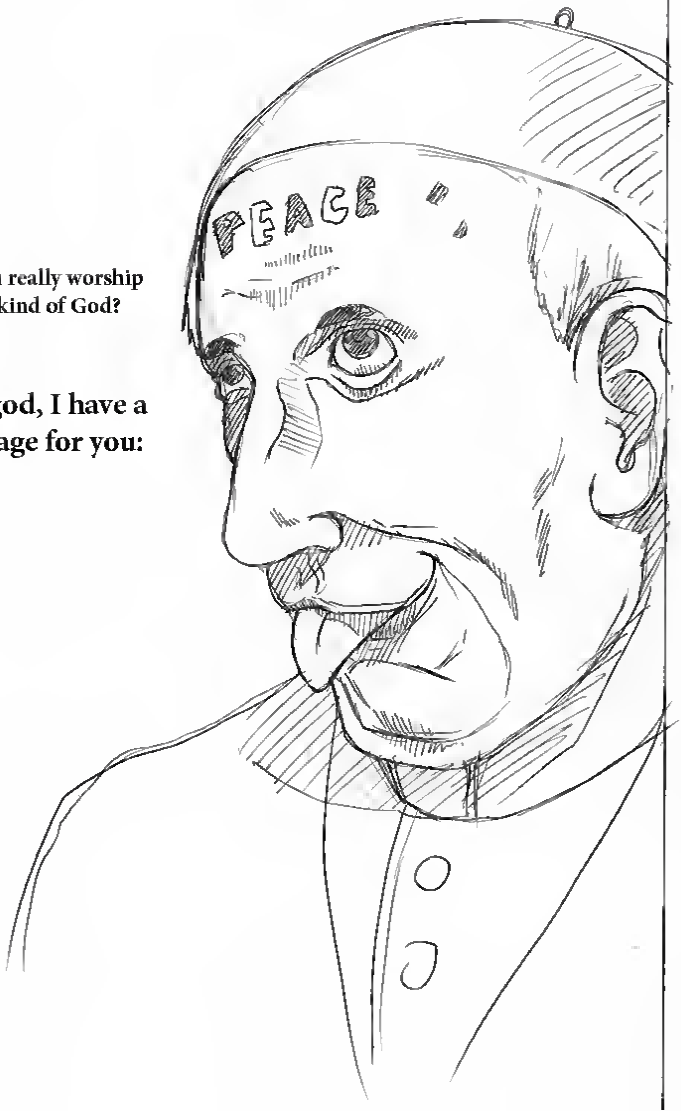
What kind of sadistic God would create such a world? What kind of all might God would let all the messed up stuff happen in this world?

What kind of God would let the religions that worship him kill more people in its name than anything else in this world?



Do you really worship this kind of God?

Hey god, I have a message for you:



FUCK YOU
